COVER STORY

Holocaust & Humanity Center finds innovative ways to carry out mission during pandemic

At historic Union Terminal, the Nancy & David Wolf Holocaust & Humanity Center is finding new and innovative ways to carry out its mission through in-person tours, a new virtual intelligence exhibit, and popular digital programs.

In 2019, HHC relocated to historic Union Terminal, a prominent Cincinnati train station that houses several other museums. Because Union Terminal is the site where numerous Holocaust survivors arrived by train in Cincinnati to rebuild their lives, HHC is the only museum in the U.S. with an authentic connection to its space.

"Our museum is so special because it examines the Holocaust through local connection to Cincinnati and the survivors who rebuilt their lives here," says Sarah L. Weiss, chief executive officer of the Nancy & David Wolf Holocaust & Humanity Center.

Since the museum's move nearly three years ago, hundreds of thousands of individuals have toured the award-winning museum, engaged with virtual tours and offerings, and attended hundreds of digital and in-person events hosted for the public.

Weiss says the museum will continue to carry out its mission in unique ways, including its newest exhibit Dimensions in Testimony, an initiative by USC Shoah Foundation to record and display testimony in a way that will preserve the dialogue between Holocaust survivors and learners far into the future. Using specialized recording and display technologies and next-generation natural language processing, Dimensions in Testimony allows visitors to ask two-dimensional displays of Holocaust survivors questions and receive responses in real time. Dimensions in Testimony is on exhibit in only eight other museums in the world.

HHC is also carrying out its mission through digital program including the Holocaust Speaker Series, which is presented on Zoom every Wednesday via Zoom at 11 a.m., educational resources for teachers, in-person tours. Visitors can learn more about the museum by visiting www.holocaustandhumanity.org

EVENT OF THE MONTH

Taste of Cincinnati is back

Taste of Cincinnati, presented by Kroger, returns to Cincinnati May 28-30! After a two-year hiatus, Cincinnati's Memorial Day weekend tradition will return with the largest selection of restaurants and food trucks in the event's history. Approximately 550,000 people now attend the annual food extravaganza, making Taste one of the nation's largest street festivals.

36 restaurants and 18 food trucks will participate at the event. In total, more than 300 menu items will be available, along with a wide variety of beers and entertainment. In the weeks leading up to Taste each year, menu items are previewed and judged for prestigious Best of Taste Awards.

Taste of Cincinnati is also a music festival, with continuous live entertainment featuring local and national recording stars performing on multiple stages throughout the event.

Over the past two years, the Taste of Cincinnati program supported local establishments through virtual programming and grant opportunities. The City of Cincinnati generously funded a total of $8 million through a collaboration with the Cincinnati USA Regional Chamber Foundation to help sustain Cincinnati's restaurant economy. The Taste of Cincinnati Team was proud to support these initiatives and are thrilled to return the Taste tradition Cincinnati residents all know and love back to the region.

Taste of Cincinnati will again be held on Fifth Street in downtown Cincinnati from Main to the ramps of I-71 and Columbia Parkway.
